home yote,

17 The accessionist, Dick Merrick, has gone to Ohio to make speeches for Vallandigham. Each day he telegraphs hack to the Chicago organ of Jeff. Davis a glowing account of his eloquence and of the copperhead crowds that he harrangues. All the meetings are stated to number 50,000. That is the standing figures—30,000 copperheads in council in each county. If brag and tall lying could elect Val., he would have a sure thing of it. But the result next Tuesday will settle the hash of the treason-shricker. Ohio will give Brough on the home vote a larger majority than it rolled up for Lincoln over the opposition. Merrick might as well have said away and saved his breath to cool his broth.

The Nashville Journal, oditorially, says that Whiseler with mast eight thousand rebel exaity and mounted infaniry, has succeeded in getting into the rear of Rosecrans and threatens to break his railroad communications. There seems to be rebel cayaly all along the Chaitanooga River, watching for weak points. New York, Oct. 10.—The Hersda's special from Nashville, dated yeaterday, says:

An unusual degree of exclament provails here to-day, in consequence of the rebel Gen. Forrest, with a force of about 4,000 mounted men, having min de a raid on our line of railroad communication between this pince and Bridgeport or Chaitanooga. Just al this particular time no trains are leaving in the direction of the front. Yet this circumstance need give no particular cause for alarm. The enemy cas do but comparatively little to injure our communication. Forrest may succeed in interrupting our communication for a few hours, but we have not only a force to drive him back, but to defeat an immensity havier force.

There is no need to fear Rosecrant' success in holding his position at Chaitanooga. He is too strong at that place for the enemy to attack him with even a show of considerable importance to us, in a railroad point of view. In the skirmidh a very few were wounded and none killed.

Some persons are inclined to think that an engagement is going on a Chaitanooga, but I don's calculate with them. Unless the case may is very despense, he will not attack Chaitanooga. If he does, tager is every likelihood that he will be defeated. If he attempts a dask movement on that pitce, he will meet a The rapid and heavy firing of our guns, it is expected, will not only stop this work, but render the rebel occupation of Sumter precarious if not impossible.

The ports are so enlarged that is very wide range is obtained, and the extreme forward had star guns on both the staboard and port sides can be swang round to act either a bow or stern chaser. The Magara is peculiarly an American ship. Her hall is by the hale amented George Steers; her machinery is American, both is model and construction, her main deck bettery is composed of guns of the invention of Admiral Irabigram and her spar deck bostery; if composed of guns of the invention of Admiral Irabigram and her spar deck bostery, rified grups of the plan of Mr. Parrott. The speed of the Misgara was fully tested on her first cruises, and she was then considered one of the Sudex as well as one of the bast assembler as well as one of the bast assembler as well as one of the Admiral Irabigram of the plan of Mr. Parrott, and without allerstick in any other essential part? We predict she will protewithout an equal. Asserviser alse will be perfect; under canwas nothing can touch her; and woe to be Alphana, Florida, or any other steamers, that her commander may desire to overchait. Escape will be impossible except by stratagem and mader cover of darkness. When not in chasse of a versel, can years will be bused almost entirely. He step ped into Dr. Horr's efficacene chility day. He step ped into Dr. Horr's efficacene chility day. He had just received an invitation to ride out to the mines, but he had left first overceat at the hotel, his ritends were waiting fir the carriages—would the doctor be so kind as its lend him an overceat or chawl? Of course and a great, well made, warm, expensive verrocat was given him. He put it omrather large for him, he said, but just, the hing. Off he went, and the doctor has never seen the coat since-nor the Professor either "Do I resemble ne father?" the Professor and Gen. Wiltse one day. The General hy for years been intimate with Dayld Do Owen, and he was but too glad to eas the his son. He could discover no similarity by tween the celebrated shifty and the emired son. The Professor was astonished—other, so that fa owell acquainted with his fath or cult distort a likeness—and he laughed to the the General War. Gen.
